Transition to Success® (TTS)
A Demonstrated Standard of Care to Treat the Condition of Poverty

Transition to Success® (TTS) has developed the first demonstrated, evidence-based standard of care to treat the condition of poverty as an environmentally based medical condition, integrating uniform protocols and analytics to directly respond to the social determinants of health. TTS protocols create a coordinated, uniform system of care with common analytics across healthcare, human service, government, education and faith-based organizations. By maximizing existing funding streams, holding systems accountable and integrating uniform protocols based upon best practices, we are improving health, education and economic self-sufficiency outcomes for children, youth, adults, older adults and other high-risk populations.

TTS, in development since 2015, is a scalable, sustainable, multi-generational, measurable, community based system of care. TTS curriculums define specific treatment protocols with a 21-domain assessment tool (based upon the Arizona Self-Sufficiency Matrix) that assesses and measures social determinant exposures affecting heath and economic self-sufficiency. TTS trains direct care staff to teach clients to prioritize, identify and ensure access to all available services and supports across their community. CARE (Coordinating All Resources Effectively) management of existing resources integrated with peer mentoring, financial literacy and volunteerism empower clients (equipped with their CARE Plan) to achieve improved health, educational and economic success for themselves and their families. The TTS Client Map of My Dreams Workbook & Guide is now available in 11 languages: Arabic, Burmese, Dari, English, French, Kinyarwanda, Pashto, Somali, Spanish, Swahili and Ukrainian.

The TTS trained CARE Network improves access to all available programs, creating connective tissue across previously siloed systems of care. The TTS standard of care promotes a common language with uniform measurement and evaluation. TTS is a Train the Trainer model that drives community-based, community-led transformational change by directly undermining the stigma and character flaw mentality associated with poverty.

TTS has been demonstrated in 7 independent evaluations that include healthcare, human services and education. TTS is recognized as a Clinton Global Initiative and is an Ascend at the Aspen Institute partner. TTS has established, for the first time, a science-based understanding of poverty with corresponding industry protocols and measures that directly confront the bias, inequities and stigma that perpetuate the health and economic conditions we are seeking to treat.

With Transition to Success, science and data, not good intentions alone, drive treatment for the condition of poverty.
